

A compilation of Published Psychological Assessment
Instruments Authored or Co-Authored
By Thomas S. Parish, Ph.D., CTRTC

The psychological assessment instruments included in this packet have demonstrated validity, reliability, and are very easy to administer and score. Notably, my co-authors and I have sought to create such scales suitable for the use of WGI members and beyond. They should serve various purposes, including entry/exit surveys for counseling, teaching, training, and/or business uses. The only request that I make is that if you use any of these scales please be sure to cite their authorship properly and be sure to inform me of your use of them, plus let me know what was found so that later researchers might be made aware of your findings with these instruments. Thank you for your anticipated courtesies in this matter.

Checklist for Successful Interviews

Kindly answer the following questions with a “yes” or a “no”. Please strive to be very honest as you answer each and every question! *^

1. ____ Did you look right (Were you neat, and did you dress to impress the interviewer)?
2. ____ Did you go alone to the interview?
3. ____ If an appointment was set, were you early for the interview?
4. ____ Were you prepared for the interview?
5. ____ When meeting others, did you shake hands firmly?
6. ____ During the interview, did you look the interviewer in the eye?
7. ____ During the interview, were you enthusiastic?
8. ____ During the interview, did you act confident, but not arrogant or conceited?
9. ____ During the interview, did you act sincere?
10. ____ During the interview, did you ask questions that showed your interest in the position?
11. ____ During the interview, did you answer questions clearly and concisely?
12. ____ During the interview, did you use proper grammar?
13. ____ During the interview, did you demonstrate awareness of the company and its products?
14. ____ During the interview, did you specify your personal goals, particularly as they pertained to the company?
15. ____ During the interview, were you positive in your demeanor and smile at others?
16. ____ During the interview, did you speak well of your past school experiences, past positions, and/or past employers?
17. ____ During the interview, were you friendly to others (particularly with the interviewer)?
18. ____ During the interview, did you convey to the interviewer that you are a very reliable and dependable person (did you mention that you were rarely ill, etc.)?
19. ____ During the interview, did you avoid promising things that you can't do, i.e., did you note any restrictions/limitations that needed to be understood in advance?
20. ____ During the interview, did you leave the impression that you really wanted the job, but only if you really did? If you don't, though, be sure to graciously decline.
21. ____ After the interview, did you immediately send the interviewer(s) a thank you note that indicated your continued interest in working with him, her, or the and the company too?

*Notably, the more “yeses” indicated above, the more likely that the position in question will be offered to you.

^Helpful hint: For best results, kindly look over this checklist before going to an interview, and then complete it immediately afterwards too. Question: What have you gained by doing so?
Answer: Hopefully, substantial insights regarding how to interview better next time!

Motivating Students Checklist

Regarding what the teacher is doing in the classroom (or anywhere else), just ask yourself the following questions:

Does the use of their teaching strategies (whatever they might be ...) do any/all of the following?

	YES	NO
1. Foster personal commitment within the student(s) in question?	___	___
2. Avoid external intrusions upon the student(s) in question?	___	___
3. Fulfill the student(s)' core needs?	___	___
4. Conform to the "Platinum Rule"?	___	___
5. Foster overlaps between the teacher's "Five Worlds" and their "Five Worlds"?	___	___
6. Promote within the student(s) a better understanding of what "Quality" is?	___	___
7. Foster greater control of feelings within the(se) student(s) through His/her/their own actions?	___	___

Please Note: The more items checked "yes", the greater the likelihood that the teacher (and/or what s/he teaches) will gain admission into the "quality world" of the students in question?

The Right Stuff Scale, Version #3

According to the “Right Stuff Scale, Version #3”, which was also recently developed by the senior author for inclusion here, the respondent(s) is (are) asked to “kindly indicate if s/he/they think that s/he/they have the ‘right stuff’, ‘wrong stuff’, or if s/he/they is (are) somewhere in-between. In total, there are fifteen descriptors, with one side composed of “right stuff” items, and the opposite side composed of items representing “wrong stuff” descriptors, e.g., “Always Patient” to “Never Patient.” One’s score is the total number of points accumulated, across descriptors, which range from as low as fifteen (15) points to as many as one seventy-five (75) points, with the higher scores representing higher marks in terms of the respondent’s “right stuff” score. (See Table 3 to peruse the “Right Stuff Scale Version #3).

“Are you a Perfectionist”
A perfectionist Scale for College Students
Thomas S. Parish & Austin Dopp

Kindly answer the following questions with a simple “yes” or “no”. Above all else, please be honest as you answer each of these questions. Thank you.

	Yes	No
1. Did you recently earn an “A” on an exam, but still didn’t become “as happy as a clam”?	___	___
2. Did you have a perfect attendance throughout the school year, yet couldn’t bring yourself to be of good cheer?	___	___
3. Did you turn in a term paper two days before it was due, yet you thought it could have been turned in earlier, making you feel very blue?	___	___
4. Did you work all day and throughout the night, but still never saw where the end is in sight?	___	___
5. Have you completed all of your assignments on time, and still found that you didn’t feel sublime?	___	___
6. Have you sought to relax after your work was done, but found that you were still uptight, and unable to have fun?	___	___
7. Have you sought to do your very best, but no matter how well you did, you still felt great unrest?	___	___
8. Do others who do well leave you feeling blue, ‘because you thought that they rode in on your coattails, and the credit should have gone to you?	___	___
9. Do you think that vacations are a big bore, and coffee breaks a real waste, and those who take them are a total disgrace?	___	___
10. Do you hate to do things twice, and cringe when others complain, realizing full well that you were not to blame?	___	___
11. Are your professors unfair when they’re supposed to judge you, but let Others slip by, at least as a general rule?	___	___
12. Is time always pressing, and do problems abound, whenever you take a trip out-of-town?	___	___

KEY: The more “yeses” checked, the more likely it is that you’re a perfectionist!

Helpful Hints for Teachers Who Wish to Help Their Students Excel

Thomas S. Parish and Austin Dopp

The present brief paper seeks to delineate some “helpful hints” that teachers can use in order to help their students excel. Each of these notions, offered here, are very much in keeping with the ideas offered in the Quality School, which was authored by William Glasser (1990). Furthermore, one’s score on this scale (i.e., the number of “YESSES” checked) should give any teacher/every teacher needed insight regarding what they are doing with their students, and/or what they should be doing too. Such insights may be found to be very helpful for teachers who are finding it difficult determining what they need to do in order to help their students excel.

Exactly what should teachers do if they wish to interact more effectively with their students? The following checklist should provide teachers with a list of things that they can do to more effectively interact with their students, and then provide these teachers with an opportunity to check off whether or not they are doing these types of things with each/every one of their students.

	YES	NO
1. Do you share powerful ideas that should empower your students?	___	___
2. Do you have, and are you willing to share with students, the knowledge that is most worth having?	___	___
3. Do you strive to build students up, and not tear them down?	___	___
4. Do you try to revere your students so that they might more likely reverse themselves and others?	___	___
5. Are you willing to “invest” your time and effort in your students, because you know that they need someone that they can “bank” on?	___	___
6. Do you help students to concentrate more on the present than on the past, for in so doing, they should master any task?	___	___
7. Do you understand that as you share your good ideas with your students, that everybody will benefit, including you?	___	___
8. Have you realized that life is the search for positive alternatives, and have you endeavored to familiarize your students with some of them?	___	___
9. Do you understand that teaching is really learning twice, and have you shared with others how becoming a teacher could be very nice?	___	___
10. Do you always try to stop, look, and listen to your students before you begin to tell them what to do?	___	___
11. Do you always strive to give your students a little more, and never settle for anything less?	___	___
12. Do you seek to always do your best, so that your students will do likewise, and excel past the rest?	___	___

Of course, these are only helpful hints that teachers might follow IF they wish to make better their todays and tomorrows. After all, the past is a closed book, but making things better for our futures, and their’s, is truly important, so kindly beware. It is up to us to make our schools better, and it will only happen if we all work together.

Teacher Effectiveness Questionnaire

	Yes	No
In your estimation, is your teacher . . .
1. Deeply interested in the subject matter?	___	___
2. Deeply interested in his/her students?	___	___
3. Likely to conduct class discussion rather than lecture?	___	___
4. Able to relate to students by teaching on their level?	___	___
5. Able to comfortably interact with students?	___	___
6. Unlikely to threaten and/or punish?	___	___
7. Able to inject humor, variety, or drama into his/her lessons?	___	___
8. Likely to treat students with kindness and courtesy?	___	___
9. Likely to ask students to do things that feel good?	___	___
10. Likely to seek input from the class regarding possible courses of action?	___	___

The more yeses checked, the more likely it is that teachers will be admitted into their students' quality worlds.
